Wheat Bonus To Be Halted On 1944 Crop

OTTAWA, Dec. 15.—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said last night that it is the "present intention" of the federal government to discontinue payment of wheat acreage reduction bonuses in 1944.

"I made this statement at the (Dominion-Provincial) agricultural conference last week," Mr. Gardiner said. "It is the present intention of the government to discontinue this bonus."

However, discontinuance of the bonus will require the approval of parliament, which by an annual act has provided for its payment, the minister said.

AMPLE SUPPLIES

(Mr. Gardiner told the conference last week that Canada is assured of supplies of wheat to meet the "highest possible demands" of the next two years, and the conference decided not to seek increased wheat acreage in 1944, leaving the objective the same as this year—17,487,000 acres, with the largest seeded area to be in Saskatchewan with 10,260,000 acres.

(Officials said the Canadian wheat surplus is such that great quantities of shipments can readily be handled from existing stocks. The balance available for export, with domestic requirements deducted, was placed at 692,471,049 bushels Sept. 21.)

War Services Heads May Get Tax Exemption

OTTAWA, Dec. 15.—(CP)—Negotiations are under way with a view to arranging exemption from income taxation of auxiliary services supervisors with the Canadian forces overseas, it was learned yesterday.

It was understood that headquarters of the auxiliary services here—Y.M.C.A., Canadian Legion, Knights of Columbus and Salvation Army—have no knowledge that 75 per cent of the 350 supervisors overseas are threatening to resign in protest against payment of income tax.

But several resignations have come in to headquarters. It was said, and there have been a few additional threats.

Auxiliary services supervisors are technically civilians, and the Canadian income tax regulations apply to Canadian civilians overseas as well as at home, through reciprocal taxation arrangements with the United Kingdom.

service in the attainment of the war aims of this country, than he has by his participation in these two epoch-making conferences.

"The meeting with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek at Cairo was held upon the friendly insistence of President Roosevelt."

CHINESE REASSURED
Many causes for Chinese misapprehension have now, at least in part, to the influence of the President, been dispelled.

If the Chinese people are obliged to await the final all-out and concerted American and British attack upon Japan until the war in Europe is won, they are nevertheless assured, not only that the pressure against Japan will be unrelenting, but also that it is completely rising and that it will continue to rise until Japan is crushed.

At the same time, the United States and British governments promise the people of China that they seek no territory in the Pacific themselves, and that all of the regions which Japan has seized from China during the last sixty years, and some of which China had lost the hope of regaining, will be restored to them.

In the same manner the doubts which some members of the Chinese government have had as to the future objectives of the Soviet Union in the Far East have been allayed. For while Russia clearly could not participate in the Cairo meeting so long as she is not at war with Japan, it is equally evident that the promise made to China, that Manchuria would be restored, her could not have been made save with the prior knowledge and agreement of the Soviet government.

When these terms shall have been carried out, once Japan has been "expelled from all other territories which she has taken," and we have every reason to believe, a co-operative and peaceful power in Asia.

COREA TO BE FREED

Finally, with the restoration of Korean independence, one of the great crimes of the twentieth century will have been rectified, and another stabilizing factor will have been added to the new international system, which must be constructed in the Pacific.

At Teheran the long expressed desire of the President to meet alone with Stalin was at last realized. This opportunity of the heads of the Russian and American governments to talk directly to each other, in the fundamental issues of the present and of the future, was not only in general salutary, but it was, in particular, the most effective method of ending, once for all, the disastrous lack of close understanding between the United States

Newsman Hunt "Nude" Turkey

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Reporters and photographers of the Augusta Herald staff were on a turkey hunt yesterday.

They were looking for a bird without any feathers and wearing a droopy look. The turkey, they were told by a school teacher, was purchased for Thanksgiving dinner last month by another school teacher. Having no men in the family, the latter hit upon the idea of chloroforming, instead of beheading, the bird. She then dry-picked the turkey and put it in the refrigerator.

The following day, the story goes, she opened the refrigerator and the made turkey staggered out.

School teacher No. 1 stoutly avowed that school teacher No. 2 was overcome with remorse and faced a sweater for the de-fathered bird.

Canadian, Nazi Tanks Clash In Battle of Moro River

By WILLIAM STEWART
WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, Dec. 13.—(Delayed)—(CP)—Canadian tank men have been fighting with the infantry right through the battle of the Moro river.

A squadron of Sherman tanks crossed the Moro behind the infantry as soon as engineers had built a crossing. Additional armoured forces which followed have been in action almost constantly on all parts of the Canadian front.

Tanks rolled over the Moro as the Canadians increased their hold on the north bank and provided the infantry with support as they expanded the bridgehead and gained ground up to the lateral road to the coastal town of Ortona.

In two engagements on the green slopes northwest of the Moro, the Canadians knocked out five German Mark IV (medium) tanks and one self-propelled gun.

The first battle with the enemy armoured came after Canadian captured San Leonardo last week. The Sherman helped assault the town, two miles inland from the Adriatic, after blasting the enemy position with high explosive shells from high ground nearby.

In a German counter-attack at dusk, enemy infantry was supported by four Mark IV tanks. A Mark IV Special self-propelled gun. The enemy lost two Mark IV's before retiring.

Salvation Army Announces New Personnel Moves

TORONTO, Dec. 15.—(CP)—Major Ernest Green, divisional commander of the Salvation Army in New Brunswick, has been promoted to brigadier, it was announced last night.

Other personnel changes include posting of Brig. H. McLean of Manitoba division to Toronto; appointment of Maj. Alf Dixon of Peterborough, Ont., as divisional commander of Northern Ontario, succeeding Brig. R. Bayner who assumes Alberta command; and the following transfers:

Lt. Col. L. Urvalski from Alberta command to Nova Scotia; Brig. Thomas Hunday, overseas supervisor in Manitoba command.

Final Figures Show War Loan Well Over Top

OTTAWA, Dec. 15.—(CP)—Final compilations show that in the fifth compulsory loan campaign ending early last month there were 1,008,336 cash applications for bonds worth $1,383,275,250—$183,275,250 more than the minimum cash objective—Finance Minister Stacey announced yesterday.

In addition $183,036,300 worth of fifth victory bonds, representing 24,715 applications, were sold in exchange for other Dominion of Canada bonds which matured or were called for redemption last Oct. 15.

Both general and payroll canvases with an objective of $25,000,000 and special names with a quota of $675,000,000 were "exceeded by a wide margin," Mr. Stacey said.

"It is particularly gratifying to be able to announce that applications from individuals on the fifth loan increased over fourth loan totals by nearly 300,000 in number, and $74,000,000 in amount."

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Only the prisoners head was in court when Judge H. Mercer Jordan, of police court, sentenced him to pay a fine of $25 or spend 30 days in jail. Counsel for the defendant advised the court his client, charged with disorderly conduct and intoxication, was in an ante room, minus trousers. The trousers were stolen by a companion, the prisoner said, who also had taken his pocketbook and his shoes. The recorder permitted counsel to enter a plea of guilty as the defendant poked his head from the doorway of the ante room.

Past Its Peak

The director of public health services in Ottawa has assured the Canadian people that the so-called influenza epidemic in this country is past its peak. Power cases are being reported, and it is expected that the disease will follow its normal course and subside rapidly now that the decline has commenced.

Due precautions should still be taken in case of colds. Rest and isolation should follow any appearance of influenza. But, except for purely local flare-ups, which may still occur, nothing remains to justify the widespread apprehension and even hysteria which was beginning to appear.

As a matter of fact, those who thought they detected a parallel between this outbreak and the epidemic of 1918 were mistaken. This time the disease has been responsible for more than 70 deaths across Canada. In 1918 the death toll ran into thousands.

There is no more cause for alarm, and in the declining days, the alleged epidemic need cause little harm if sensible precautions are taken.

No More Japanese

It is incomprehensible that the Edmonton city council should permit another family of Japanese to settle in the community after the disapproval of a large section of the public over these admissions has been made sharply known to them. Edmonton people do not want any more Japanese in this district—no matter what service they can render to any industry. The citizens of this district have made it very clear that they do not intend to permit this city to repeat the experiences of Vancouver, where the Japanese settlement became first an embarrassment and finally a downright menace.

It required a war to pry the sons of Nippon loose from the textile industry and business monopolies at the Coast. We want no repetition of that here. The Japanese are unassimilable. Most of them are in the service of Japan. They are definitely unwelcome.

It seems strange that when the housing situation is so serious in Edmonton that the dependents of men who are defending their country cannot find accommodation, our city council should permit the invasion of more alien elements.

Socialized Farms?

Mr. Coldwell is in a benevolent mood these days. He is going about the country telling farmers that he doesn't propose to take their farms away from them, and that town-folk that he does not aim to deprive them of their homes. That is a concession, surely.

Who is Mr. Coldwell that he should count it a virtue to himself and his political friends that they do not intend to take farms away from the farmers or to take lands away from the town-dwellers? The property that these people have acquired they did so by honest means, and any forcible expropriation, on the part of these promoters of expropriation. What they have secured through their efforts is an enterprise, self-denied and foreign. They worked, and planned, and did without things to accumulate the possessions that the socialized farm opponents would suggest they might take away from them but won't. How kind of them!

A point to not forget is that if the advocates of confiscation were consistent they would propose to grab farm land first and foremost. For the reason that farm land is the biggest and the most valuable natural resource in this Dominion. Why expropriate the most valuable of all resources while proposing to appropriate those of lesser value?

In point of fact when the socializing movement was first getting under way in Saskatchewan many years ago the socialization of land was one plank in the drafted platform. But it had to be dropped like a hot potato when the farm owners threatened to build. So it may not be altogether out of the goodness of her heart that Mr. Coldwell should not propose the expropriation of the land that he has so covetously impudently to dispossess the farmers. He knows that he couldn't get a candidate elected in any rural riding unless he told the farmers that he would exempt them from the confiscating god underground.

But once in power, who knows that the thorough-going socializer will not proceed to squeeze on their exemption-promising leader and compel him to socialize farm and town homes, along with other kinds of property?

Post-War Objectives

Prime Minister King a few weeks ago served notice on the leaders of Opposition parties that the one-sided political campaign they have been carrying on for two years cannot go on. Since they had abandoned the party track declared when the country was in the throes of war, the government would be obliged to defend itself against their criticism and to put its record and policies before the public.

There is an echo of this declaration in the speeches which Hon. Ian MacKenzie delivered this week in Vancouver. They were political speeches, and they were in the circumstances properly so. The Minister both analyzed the proposals of the critics and set forth the case of the Government as to governments and forward-looking policies. These speeches have been reproduced in the Bulletin. They are well worth re-reading and preserving by those who desire to know the facts as to the record and what is proposed for the future.

The speeches provide a mine of information in which to find the explanation of current misunderstandings and the answers to misrepresentation. They tell what has been done so far, what is to be done, and what the government plans to do in regard to the reconstruction problem and why such plans have been drawn. The subject-matter thus presented will be the basis of wide discussion and detailed reference.

The national objectives of public policy, Mr. MacKenzie suggested, on behalf and with the approval of the Government of course, are:

1. National security through international co-operation.
2. Productive and remunerative employment for all who are able to work.
3. Protection of the health of the people and social insurance on an adequate scale.

These three "planks" are simply and plainly worded. But they are comprehensive enough to include all that reasonable minded people ask of any government, and all that the government of the day has undertaken to provide, conserve and foster prosperity. They guarantee freedom with opportunity. What more do self-denial and every peep ask of their national authority?

Though unable to attend, Marshal Stalin joined President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill in inviting President Inonu of Turkey to the second Cairo conference. The inference is that the destinies of Turkey between Russia and Turkey are improving. They have been strained for generations, mainly because Russia wants an outlet to the Mediterranean and Turkey holds the Dardanelles. Turkey, being the smaller power, is likely to respond to the friendly gesture by facilitating an arrangement to be made between the two powers, the waterway without interference.

Berlin denies the report that Count Ciano had been executed and says his trial has not yet begun. Mussolini being a sick man is probably the reason for the delay. Unless he recovers health enough to be judged by a court, he will never take place. The offence laid against Ciano is that he deserted Mussolini, in favor of saving his own hide. That is merely a fancy. The crime of Ciano was probably no strong feeling. He deserted Benito himself when it came to making an all-out fight to keep the Allies out of Sicily and Southern Italy.

Abolition of War Is Essential

Suffering and Distress Cannot be Tolerated Again

By HAYMOND CLAPPER
WASHINGTON—Around a hospital you realize how much effort and scientific progress goes into the struggle to save life. You go back into the world which from one side or another is slaughtering on a scale never before possible, and it doesn't make much sense.

New creeds of slaughter appear in the bombing of Berlin, on the Russian front, and in the bloody trip of our marines at Tarawa. Only stupidity will permit us to remain such a shabby slave of Gold and Clay.

Raymond Clapper
If there was no war, we would be in the past, there is a way now. That is the big opportunity of the generation that is here right now, the men who are in charge of the world in the office next year, you who will vote on those candidates, all of us have an opportunity.

We have it because certain conditions exist today that can foster security and peace. The instruments are available now. They can be determined.

that these instruments shall be used. What are these instruments? They are first, victory, second, the modern weapons to win, especially the air forces and navies of the world, and third, the four leaders of the big powers.

Victory we are certain to have. With the enemy's disarmed our side is free for the time being to order the world as it will, as has been decreed for Japan, in the Cairo declaration.

Our navies and our air forces are sufficient, if we use them to prevent aggression, to keep the peace of the world, and to prevent nations from resorting to war to adjust their grievances. Let the American navy control the Pacific, the British the eastern Atlantic and waters around to Singapore. There, plus air forces, you have a big start on the solution.

Third, the four leaders of the Allied powers, through some accidental circumstances, have become the chief instruments through which all the other instruments can be brought to bear on the problem of achieving security and peace.

They are working time functions. They are to begin the process of insuring its perpetuation. Roosevelt, Churchill, Stalin, and the fourth, who is human instrument. Without them, with any one of them failing, their holdings of shared peace would be desperate.

is a most serious and disturbing situation. These people, both victors and losers, are spreading and extending their operations very rapidly.

Our organization has been pressing both governments for some action to restrain these people under war conditions.

The provincial government passed legislation prohibiting certain religious and pacifist groups and individuals from acquiring control over farm lands. This legislation was promptly disavowed by the federal authorities on the grounds that control of enemy aliens was a federal responsibility.

Ways to Stop Those Heat Leaks

If Not Sure of Drafts Hold Lighted Candle Near Crack

By MARY ELISE QUAYNE

Winter is here, and with it those draughts you complained about last year, as well as the monthly shawl by the fuel bill. With fuel more precious than ever this year, it is a good idea to see to it that every possible means of conserving heat is taken immediately.

There are several ways to save heat. The simplest is to close your attic door. You can apply the insulation yourself at reasonable cost. Or you can have a lumber dealer tell you how to do it.

By employing storm windows you can save up to 20 per cent of your heat loss. They are not as effective as they should be.

Drummers in unused fireplaces should be closed to prevent the escape of heat. If you have one, use your fireplace. If you have one, use your fireplace.

fall to send out all the heat the radiator gives. Radiator shields reflect heat back into the room and prevent heat absorption by the wall behind the radiator. Heat can be saved by placing any solid reflecting surface behind each radiator.

Seal or caulk all heat leaks in the heating system and the smoke pipe connection with the chimney. Stove pipes should be caulked at every joint.

If you have a forced air system, filters become dirty and interfere with circulation of warm air. If filters cannot be cleaned, change them at least once a year.

An insulating jacket on your hot water tank will save heat. At frequent intervals, drain off any accumulation of sludge through the tap provided. Clean water heats with less fuel.

Expect Heavy Vote By-Election Thursday

Candidates in Three-Way Fight Wind Up Campaigns In Constituency Tonight

Final guns in the Red Deer by-election campaign will be fired in the Central Alberta city tonight when Social Credit, C.C.F. and Independent candidates and party officials mount the rostrum for final addresses before polls open at 9 a.m. Thursday at 55 different points through the riding.

I Saw Today

Although advance polling in the constituency was light, with only 15 votes cast, Robert A. Andison, chief electoral officer for the Social Credit Party, said today that he expected a heavy vote at the by-election point.

It is understood the voters' list is much larger than in the provincial general elections of 1940 when some 8,000 names were recorded. Election officials estimate some 600 soldiers in Red Deer will vote in the election, but that at other points in the riding the enumerators' lists are no larger, and in some cases smaller, than in 1940.

WIDE INTEREST
The by-election, necessitated by recent death of Alfred Speckman, president M.L.A., has created the greatest interest in political circles throughout the Dominion.

Each of the three parties running candidates have supported their nominee with heaviest cables from all over the province.

The C.C.F. party, with Ald. Edgar E. Johns nominated, has sponsored the Independent Citizens' Association of Alberta James C. Mahaffy, K.C., independent leader at the last session of the legislature. Major Andrew Davison, M.L.A. of Calgary, and George MacLachlan, M.L.A., of Pembina constituency, Independent party will at the last legislative session.

Store Showcase, Auto Are Looted
Thieves who broke into an automobile on Friday last got away with a quantity of shoplifted, 22 calibre cartridges and backache blades, valued at $100, while from a downtown drugstore showcase a fountain pen, with a retail value of over $70, were taken, police authorities were notified Tuesday.

W. Summers, 8625 35th Ave., told police the car had been parked at the curb of his residence.

One box of 22 calibre, several boxes of shotgun shells and one riding hat were stolen from the vehicle, Summers said.

Liggett's Drug Store, 101 1st Street and Jasper Avenue, reported the theft of 20 fountain pens at having occurred some time Monday. A check to see if other articles were missing from the showcase is being made.

Chief Cook Canadian Army Troops Here Will Have Taste of Paradise

By JACK DE LONG
Nothing is so paradise on earth for troops stationed at the Edmonton garrison will prevail at the Prince of Wales Army on Friday, Dec. 24, when "ordinary" N.C.O.'s will literally order the officers' mess.

This sweetest of all conditions short of the blessed heaven, will prevail for only an hour or more when officers of the garrison will serve as cooks and waiters to the troops and file at the annual Christmas dinner celebration.

In addition to lots of turkey and stuffing, there'll be cigars and other refreshments, all passed out by the officers.

For a brief period Friday the ordinary "Joes" really have their innings.

Li-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., army commandant, who will be chief cook, head waiter and just Joe for his privy but privates at the annual Christmas dinner held on Christmas Eve in order that men may be at their own home for Christmas Day.

Penicillin Drug Soon Available For Civil Use

A recent discovery by an American doctor simplifying the production of penicillin for external use will result in making this drug available very soon to all civilian doctors and hospitals.

The Edmonton C.C.F. group, led by Dr. J. Perry Edgar, M.L.A., president of the House of Commons, and tonight speaks at a meeting in the Masonic Temple sponsored by the Edmonton C.C.F. group.

He said that the doctor, working with an American steel company, had discovered that it is possible to manufacture penicillin in a much simpler and less costly method used for the production of the drug. He stressed the fact that the drug produced would be available only to members of the armed forces and the public.

FOR GENERAL USE
The importance of the discovery, Mr. Carter stated, was that the fact that the drug produced would be available only to members of the armed forces and the public.

Mr. Carter, who is senior editor for Toronto Star Night, is the author of several books, his "Rusick Secret Weapons" breaking all Canadian sales records.

The Inquiring Reporter
What do you think of the plan to keep stores open before Christmas to accommodate shoppers?

THE ANSWERS
MISS JEAN MOORE: I am sure it helps people who have not been able to get their shopping done earlier, and so it is a worthwhile plan. As a clerk, I know a few of the disadvantages—right up to the fact that the most expected late opening and planned for it, it will not bother us.

RONALD ROSS, salesman: I don't see its necessity, and I think people who have not been able to get their shopping done earlier, and so it is a worthwhile plan. As a clerk, I know a few of the disadvantages—right up to the fact that the most expected late opening and planned for it, it will not bother us.

HAROLD SNOW, traveller: The night openings give me my only chance to do my Christmas shopping, or to even get into the stores at all. If it wasn't for late opening, the folks would have to do all my Christmas shopping, so I well might say that late opening is the only thing that keeps me from getting into the stores.

3,000 WOMEN DO PART-TIME WORK IN CITY

Approximately 3,000 Edmonton women are engaged in doing part-time work according to A. O. MacLachlan, acting manager of the local Unemployment Insurance and Selective Service office.

Since the outbreak for local women to do part-time work, the serious labor situation in the city has been lessened. It is estimated that 1,500 women have been placed in part-time jobs in retail stores, restaurants, laundries, garment factories and the like.

Employment officials feel that probably another 1,500 are working in local shops, but have not passed through the employment office, as permits for this type of work are not necessary.

For jobs of 24 hours per week or more, women are required to pass through the Selective Service regulations.

First Three Tenants For Wartime Houses Likely To Get Occupancy on Thursday

Occupancy of the first of the homes completed under the 250-dwelling project being built here by Wartime Housing Ltd., will probably be given to the first three tenants on Thursday, according to present plans of officials of Wartime Housing Ltd., here.

The dwellings are being made available to applicants who are in need of housing for several years, and the first tenants will be taken from the applicants now living in quarters that are unsuitable in cold weather. One of the first tenants will be a family presently living in a single-board garage without flooring.

Officials of the rental agency established here by the Crown company stated that "the need of the applicant for housing will be the first consideration in the allocation of the homes, as they are in the families of ex-servicemen were amongst the first to be allocated."

Ask Survey of Highway Signs

In an effort to improve highway safety conditions, the Alberta Motor Association revealed today that it is calling upon the provincial authorities to conduct a survey of highway signs on main and secondary highways in the province.

The association was adopted at the annual meeting of the Alberta Motor Association, held at the Hotel Astor, Edmonton, on Dec. 4 when safety measures generally were discussed.

Officials Tracing Missing Workers

Selective Service officials are making an effort to locate approximately 85 workers of the local construction project who left the project without securing the necessary release slips and who have not been working for the past four weeks.

The company sent termination slips to the local Selective Service office, Wednesday stating that the men had not reported for work for approximately four weeks. Whereabouts of the men is not known but officials state that it will be impossible for them to obtain other employment anywhere until they receive release slips from the local office. Apparently the men have not applied for work as yet as nothing has been heard of them. Local officials believe that when the workers "turn up" they will attempt to place them in essential work.

WASHINGTON.—The other day Dr. Wu Yi-Fang lunched with me and brought me a little piece of embroidery from the students at the women's college, of which she is president. It is the Gingham College. In China there are only two women's colleges, but a great number of coeducational universities have sprung up during the war, because of the great shortage of college trained men power. They need doctors, engineers, chemists, etc., in great numbers. Their difficulties are not a shortage of man power for the army, but rather less time for the perfection of detailed work which has made artists and craftsmen in China famous in the past. If living standards go up, this kind of work will have to be substituted here, as it should be substituted here.

We can only hope that they will see the need and do so from the beginning, instead of going through the long fight for the recognition of the artist's value to the public and contribution to modern civilization. We are only beginning to grasp this here.

Dr. Wu Yi-Fang is here working on post-war problems as a representative of the Chinese government. I am sure she will make a very fine contribution, for she knows English well and is a charming and easy person with whom to become acquainted.

Yesterday afternoon and today have been given up largely to seeing individual people and doing the constant mail. Sometimes this mail is quite heart-rending, for there is nothing one can do in many cases. Yet, it seems incredible to many people that this should be the case.

One poor mother writes me about her son who failed, for apparently entirely understandable reasons, to live up to army regulations.

She can not see why the inevitable punishment had to be meted out to him, when he had no intention of doing wrong. The lesson, that not our intentions but only our actual performance is taken into account, is one of the most difficult things for all young people to learn. Often it is equally hard for the parents, who usually try so hard to understand their children, that they forget to tell them once they are out of the mainstream of life only information will be taken into account.

McCoy Health Service

Sometimes instead of affecting the mucous membrane of the breathing passages, influenza will chiefly affect the gastro-intestinal tract, and in this form it is popularly known as intestinal flu.

At the start of the attack, the patient may think he has an upset stomach, as the symptoms may closely resemble those of indigestion. However, when the trouble persists, the patient begins to suspect that he is something more than a stomach upset. Inquiring among his friends, he will probably find others who have had similar troubles and finally he discovers that influenza is going through an attack of intestinal flu.

The symptoms vary considerably, depending to some extent upon whether the case is a mild one or severe, but the following symptoms may occur: The patient notices that the appetite is poor, and he may be faintly nauseated. Upon eating a meal, he may feel worse afterwards than before. There is likely to be considerable gas, and there may be a burning sensation, or a sickish feeling in the stomach which makes the patient feel as though he were going to lose his food.

As one patient described it to me recently, "There is a squishy feeling after eating, and the meal doesn't set right."

In the morning, the patient may find he is forced to cough up mucus in large amounts, and he is likely to gag during these coughing spells.

There may be generalized cramp-like pains through the abdomen, which appear off and on. Usually if the attack is at all severe the intestinal function is disturbed, causing several watery movements a day.

The patient may notice that he is experiencing pains in the muscles of the body. The pains are sharp and quick may not last long. Usually there is considerable weakness and the weakness may be so pronounced for a minute or two that the patient is forced to stop whatever he is doing until the weakness passes off. It is characteristic that the patient may feel strong one moment and weak the next. As he begins to get better, the weak periods come farther and farther apart, and about this time he finds that he is digesting some of his meals successfully although it is probable that an occasional meal will still disagree.

In the uncomplicated case the outlook for recovery is good, and within seven to fourteen days the patient will have recovered his normal well-being and will be back on his feet. The weakness may persist, but he is digesting his meals in comfort and the colon has returned to its normal rhythm.

During the attack, the treatment depends somewhat upon the severity of the symptoms. In a severe case, the patient should be in bed, and should be getting nothing but fruit juice every two hours, taking an eight ounce glass for each feeding. He should remain throughout one day on what ever he is eating in the morning, but it is all right to change to a different place the following day if he desires. Milder cases usually do well on a soup diet, the patient using a large bowl of vegetable soup which he selects in the morning. Plenty of water should be taken, regardless of whether the patient is on juice or on soup.

A daily enema is advisable for its cleansing effect upon the colon. Either dry or moist heat over the abdomen will often relieve the colicky distress.

As the patient gets back on his feet, the following points will return at which time he will be able to start using simple, wholesome meals. He should be careful of his diet for a week or two, avoiding any foods which are difficult to digest.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address: McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1155 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.
